I like LM because of the warm and friendly
students and teachers.

Although there are many students here, we still have the opportunity to meet and interact when we come together during the chapel period. The teachers are very nice, approachable and fair. What I like a lot is the number of international students here. I enjoy the opportunity to share about my culture with the local and international students as well as learn about theirs. Overall, it has been an interesting and enriching experience for me.

LM has changed my life.

Without the friendship and tremendous support I received from the school community, I wouldn't have changed from a shy international student to one who can converse confidently with my American friends.

ATHLETICS

FOCUSED ON THE JOURNEY

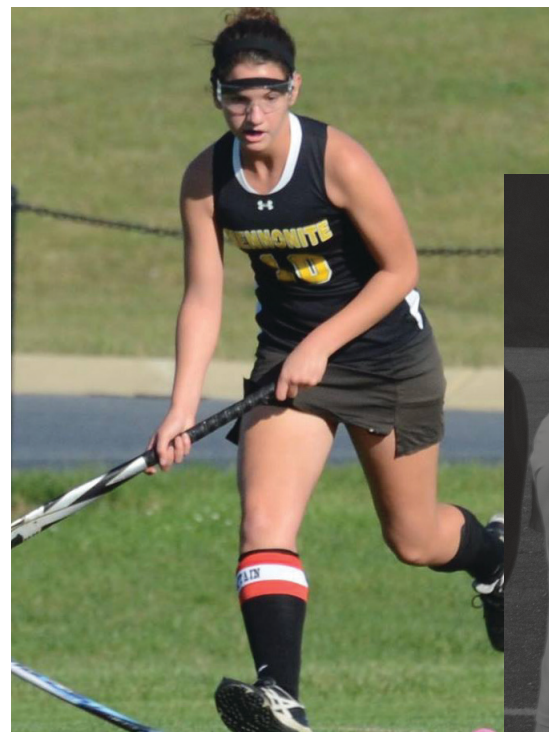

LM Blazers are a resilient group of student-athletes who represent their teammates, coaches, parents, school and community with athletic and academic excellence.

Teamwork, sportsmanship and character – three things at the core of LM athletics, three things that make up a good team, and three things that will help students go far in life.

TEAMWORK.
SPORTSMANSHIP.
CHARACTER.

Through the athletics program, students grow socially, spiritually, emotionally, and mentally. For this reason, LM students are encouraged to participate actively in sports to experience a comprehensive education. FIND YOUR PLACE

COMMUNITY, DIVERSITY AND SERVICE

When I reflect on my LM experience, these three concepts prove to be very significant. In addition to the dynamic academic environment LM has offered me, I have also been challenged to engage in a supportive community of students, celebrate diversity and pursue service opportunities.

Spending the first six years of my education at a different school, I am able to appreciate/evaluate LM in the context of other educational institutions. While most Christian schools are relatively small, I have found the size of LM to be a comfortable medium; large enough to offer a significant amount of opportunities and extra-curricular activities and small enough for every student to be acknowledged as more than a number.

SHAPING TOMORROW'S LEADERS

THE SEED PLANTED IN MY SOUL AT LM CONTINUES TO BLOSSOM.

At my former school, I was just getting by with the bare minimum and not applying myself to my full potential. At LM, something clicked. I was intrigued by the delight the teachers had to teach their subjects and to teach me as a person. A seed was planted for learning and sharing with others. Thanks to LM, I went on to get a Bachelor's degree in social work and then a Master's degree (MSW) from Temple University. I also spent some time in Honduras to share what I learned with others. I can say wholeheartedly that I am truly blessed; the seed that was planted in my soul many years ago at LM continues to blossom.
